Souvenir of a Visit by the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada - to the Canadian Adirondacks, North of Quebec, over the Line of the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway

* * * THE session of the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada which was held in the ancient city of Quebec from the 6th to the 15th of September, 1905, inclusive, was a remarkable one in every respect. All the dioceses of that Church from the Atlantic to the Pacific were represented, the clerical and lay delegates numbering about two hundred, while almost a score of Canadian bishops attended the session as well as three American bishops, forming part of a delegation from the Sister Church in the United States.

The opening service was very imposing, the sermon being preached by the Right Rev. Bishop Tuttle, presiding bishop of the American Church, in the venerable and beautiful Cathedral of Quebec. This historic edifice was erected by King George III, in 1801. Its massive communion service is a gift of that monarch, the last resting place of the Duke of Richmond is in its chancel, and the numerous mural tablets and colored windows preserve a record of many names notable in the history of Canada. On the following Sunday, the closing sermon of the Cathedral centenary was preached by the venerable Archbishop Bond, of Montreal, Primate of Canada. It is noteworthy that the day upon which Archbishop Bond preached the centenary sermon was the ninetieth anniversary of his birth, a fact which many of those present found it difficult to reconcile with His Grace's robust vigor and strength of voice.

The Archbishop of Canterbury

Just a year previous, the opening sermon of the centenary of the Quebec Cathedral was preached from the same pulpit by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Primate of the Church of England, in the course of which, in alluding to the historical memories of the place, he paid a touching tribute to the Jesuit Missionaries who had been sent from Quebec to evangelize the Indians more than two centuries ago, and had suffered martyrdom in the cause of Christianity.

As soon as the Synod had been declared open, Hon. Adolard Turgeon, representing the Government of the Province of Quebec, formally welcomed the members to Quebec and expressed the pleasure with which he and his colleagues in the Executive Council, with the consent of the Judges had placed the Court House, in which they were assembled, together with the Judges Chambers, at the disposal of the Synod.

LAVAL UNIVERSITY, QUEBEC

Pro-Mayor Cummings, on behalf of the Mayor and citizens of Quebec welcomed the delegates to the city, and the Hon. Charles Langelier, Sheriff of the district, in his robes of office, welcomed them to the Court House, which is in his particular charge, and offered them every facility in his power for the dispatch of their important business.

Many of the citizens of the place manifested a deep interest in the work and proceedings of the Synod, and the delegates were the recipients of several courtesies of both a private and a public nature.

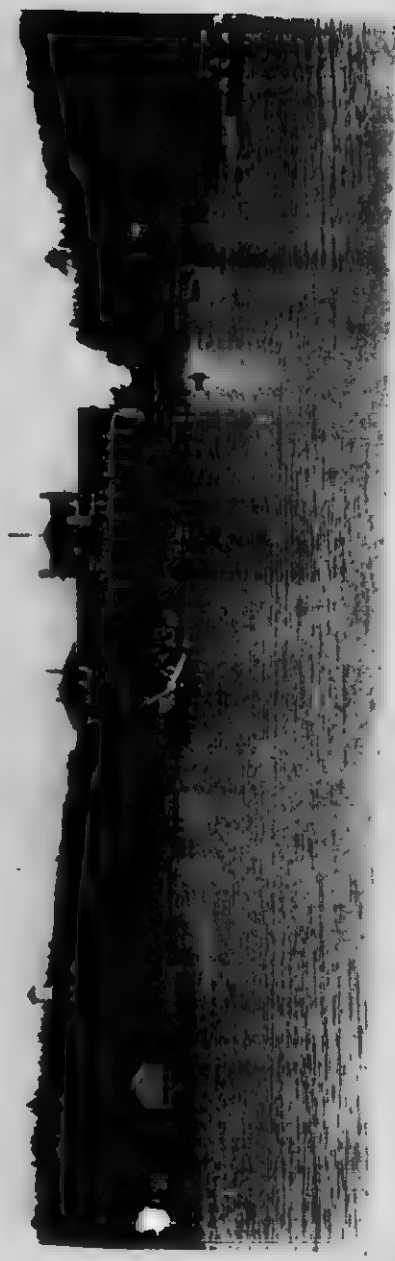

Several dinners were given by the Lord Bishop of the diocese and others, the Women's Auxiliary gave a reception, His Honor the Lieut.-Governor and Lady Jetté gave a brilliant At Home at Spencer Wood, the authorities of Laval University threw open their venerable institution to the members of Synod by special invitation of Monseigneur Mathieu, C. M. G., the courteous and scholarly Rector of the celebrated University, founded by Mgr. Laval in 1663, and the Literary and Historical Society, another very old institution, did the same thing.

There were excursions to Montmorency, Ste. Anne de Beaupré and Lake St. Joseph, the latter mentioned being peculiarly interesting, for the reason that it afforded the excursionists an opportunity of visiting a picturesque portion of the Canadian Adirondacks, as the Laurentian country, north of Quebec, has often been called. And it is for the purpose of preserving a souvenir of this little trip as well as of this memo-nable convention which gave rise to it that the present pamphlet has been written.

Passing through the pretty village of Charlebourg, the special train of elegant parlor cars which conveyed the members of the Synod, over two hundred of whom were present, to Lake St. Joseph, made a brief pause at Lorette. This station, which is about eight mile from the city, is in the very middle of the Indian Village, the home of the Christian Hurons, lineal descendants of those ancient warriors who waged such savage wars with the Iroquois at the time of Frontenac, two hundred years ago. These Indians gain their livelihood by hunting and trapping, and by the manufacture of snowshoes, moccasins, toboggans and fancy beadwork. The magnificent falls of Lorette are alone well worth the journey to see.

Four or five miles beyond Lorette, the train crossed the pretty Jacques Cartier river, quite a famous salmon stream in its lower stretches, while some of the largest brook trout on record have been taken out of its waters and from the lake in which it takes its rise.

Fifty minutes after leaving Quebec, the train landed the delegates at the lake St. Joseph hotel, on one of the shores of the beautiful mountain lake of that name, embowered amid the forest-clad Laurentian mountains. Ten trains daily, five each way, run between Quebec and the hotel during the summer season.

After strolling about the hotel grounds, the members of Synod and their friends, including many of their Quebec hosts and hostesses, were treated to trips up the lake on the steam and motor launches belonging to the hotel. The lake has an irregular circumference of twenty miles, being eight miles long and from one to three in width. It is closely surrounded by mountains, clad in magnificent hard wood trees, reaching down to the water's edge, and embellished with verdure-embowered nooks and oft recurring vistas of charming scenery. While the water in the middle is very deep and clear, the lake is surrounded for a considerable distance, especially in the neighborhood of the hotel, by very gently sloping beaches of hard sand, forming perfectly safe and most delightful bathing grounds. Speckled trout, lake trout, black bass, and a whitefish of excellent flavor, to which the residents give the name of freshwater shad, inhabit its waters. Bass are taken here most freely in the months of July and August, and the lake or forked-tail trout, called by the French-Canadians touladi, is caught throughout the whole season, either by trolling near the bottom of the deepest portions of the lake, or in fishing the same localities with live minnows. These forked-tail trout grow to an immense size and have been known to exceed thirty pounds in weight.

Amongst other summer amusements at this beautiful summer place are golf links, lawn tennis, croquet and bowling. With all these attractions it is not surprising that Lake St. Joseph has become quite a fashionable resort. So much so is this the case that several picturesque summer cottages have been erected upon its shores, and it was the demand for increased accommodation on the part of American and other summer visitors that led to the construction of the new hotel. Over one hundred rooms were ready for last summer's tourist season, and for a time most of them were taken.

The magnificent views as seen from the broad verandah, and the quaint and comfortable furnishing of the hotel were much admired by the visitors, who were entertained to afternoon tea in the large dining room—a room finished and furnished in Flemish style—by the directors of the hotel company, represented by the Hon.

LAKE ST. JOSEPH, FROM THE HOTEL VERANDAH

Senator Tessier, President, and Mr. J. G. Scott, General Manager of the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway.

The Lord Bishop of Quebec proposed a hearty vote of thanks to those two gentlemen and their colleagues, for the delightful outing which had been given them, and Senator Tessier, in response made a graceful little speech, assuring the members of the Synod that the visit of so many distinguished people, gathered from all parts of the Dominion, was most welcome and was much appreciated by all the citizens of the old city of Champlain—a city already three centuries old—irrespective of origin and creed. The return to town about six o'clock, terminated one of the most pleasing entertainments that marked the stay of the delegates in Quebec, and many regrets were expressed that time did not permit of their penetrating further into the mountains, so as to enjoy the magnificent scenery of Lake Edward, Lake St. John, Chicoutimi and the Saguenay, and of experiencing the comforts of the beautiful Hotel Roberval and Island House reached by the Railway and its steamers.

Hon. Senator J. Tessier.

The Lord Bishop of Quebec.
